Dark Velvet

Elegant Café in extraordinary way.

That is why it attracts special people.

Especially Sandro Dragoj, admirable painter and founder of Infernalismus group, who has become an organizer of many events in here. Other people involved are Tereza and Jakub Dobrovič who are writers and regular customers in local Absinth Club.

Dark Velvet is very grateful to them and to many others for their cooperation.

You have already come in and sat down. Now it is time to read our menu.

There are many possibilities. From tasteful coffee (flavoured with violet, rose or lavender), to tea of a good quality or homemade quiche. However, we cannot forget absint, which is not only a great alcoholic drink but also an inspiration to many people.

While being here, you can look through ongoing exhibition and there is also a bookcase available.

There is also our garden, which is open during the summer. A small waterfall is situated there.

We hope you enjoy the time spent in our cafe the best you can, because time seems to be a relative thing in this place.

Yours DarkVelvet.

„Coffee must be hot as hell,
black as the devil and sweet as love.“

– Charles Maurice de Talleyrand
(french diplomat)

Illy Coffee is a family company with ninety years old history. Illy is lead by a grandson of the founder, Andrea Illy. Modern technology and old traditional craftsmanship are connected in the approach to the production. Sometimes Andrea jokes that Illy Coffee is the biggest of the smallest roasters.

Illy Coffee is made of nine types of Arabica coffee. As every agricultural crop, each type of coffee is different depending on harvest time, so to mix a good coffee is really an artistic work.

Absinth

History of Absinth has probably begun in the 18th century in a swiss Couvet, where the first recipe was written by a doctor Pierre Ordinaire. In 1792 Absinth was patented and considered a „medicine for everything“.

The recipe was given to Henriodovs sisters, who were selling Absinth as a healing medicine. What happened next was documented. Certain major Dubied got the recipe and established the first distillery of Absinth in 1797.

The Second distillery was opened in 1805 in French Pontalieru. It was called Mison Pernod Fils and it was the greatest producer of Absinth in France till its prohibition in 1914.

Absinth was one of the most favourite alcoholic drinks during the second half of the 19th century in Europe, especially among impressionists such as Vincent Van Gogh, Edgar Allan Poe, Charles Baudelaire, Guy De Mopassant, Paul Verlaine and Oscar Wilde. Also Ernest Hemingway and Pablo Picasso were inspired by Absinth.
